WOLF GmbH takes over Croatian air handling and ventilation systems manufacturer PRO-KLIMA

Location: Samobor near Zagreb

As announced in the press release enclosed, the Croatian air handling and ventilation systems manufacturer PRO-KLIMA d.o.o. has become a subsidiary of Wolf GmbH with immediate effect.

We all expect a considerable strategic consolidation of our market position in this business area.

In order to use the strengths of PRO-KLIMA together with Wolf efficiently, the necessary steps will be elaborated and realized by respective teams from now on. This implies for you that for the time being there won't be any changes in the day-to-day business. As soon as it comes to the development of the way of proceeding in the various markets and countries or the agreement on product ranges, etc., the respective organisations will certainly be involved. A team of project leaders will take care of the coordination of requests and joint projects for the time being. You will receive more detailed information on this project leader team by e-mail next week.

Our goal must be to use the opportunities of this cooperation as fast and as best as possible, without forgetting important matters or acting precipitately. We are looking forward to the active contribution of you all.
